Your Calendar Widget Pro is a widget that can be used on the home screen, lock screen and notification bar. It shows you upcoming events. Easily configure widgets to suit your needs. Each widget has its own configuration. This allows you to use multiple widgets with different calendar and display settings. YourWidget Pro Features: • Widgets can be used on home screen, lock screen and notification bar • Each widget has its own configuration • Current different look. Today, tomorrow, and later events • View events as agendas, simple lists, month calendars • Highly configurable - Highly configurable - Predefined styles • Select a calendar to display in widgets • Set how long to search for events • Notifications • To create calendar widgets that dynamically scale the entire widget, click on the Event Calendar > Widget. Available widgets Full Calendar With a complete calendar, you can embed traditional calendars on web pages and LibGuide. This allows patrons to view events by day, either by month, week, day, or agenda view. Hover over the event to see its details pop up and click the event that the user can go to the entire page of the event (which can be registered if necessary). Because of its size, the full calendar widget is perfect for desktop sites, not mobile pages. In these cases, consider a mini calendar instead. :) customize the look and feel of your complete calendar widget? Mini Calendar Mini Calendar is similar to a complete calendar - only small! The widget displays a list of events scheduled by default. However, when the user clicks on a date in the calendar, a list of events for the day is displayed. Users can click a link to the event they want to learn. This also allows you to go to the event page and register. Event list If you want to display an event in a simple list, you don't need to look anywhere other than the various event list widgets. These widgets can be customized to display a list of events scheduled over a period of time and to display a complete detail or a simple list of each event. In any case, these widgets provide a link to the full event page for each event that patrons can register for. You can create the following event list widget: Upcoming Events: This will show the selected number of upcoming events for one or more calendars in the next six months. Today's event: Displays all events that are occurring on the current date of one or more calendars. Events of the week: For one or more calendars, you're going to see events for the next seven days. Events for the next two weeks: Displays events for one or more calendars over the next 14 days. Next month's events: For one or more calendars, you'll see events for the next four weeks. Create a widget Select the type of widget you want to create. Select one or more calendars to include in the widget. If you have multiple sites enabled in your calendar, you can filter events by site (campus, branch, and so on). You can also filter events for each event.Also by category. Depending on the type of widget you create, you have different customization options. For complete calendar widgets: Calendar options: You can customize the size and display of your calendar, including date and time formats. For mini-calendar widgets: Window target: You can choose to open the event link in a new window or in the same window. Calendar size: You can customize the size of the mini-calendar in pixels. Limit the number of events: You can limit the maximum number of events displayed in a widget at a time. For event list widgets: Limit the number of events: This allows you to limit the maximum number of events displayed in a widget at a time. Event details: You can view the details of each event (title, date, time, presenter, description, etc.) or a simple list (title, date, time). Window target: You can choose to open the event link in a new window or in the same window. Widget request format: You can choose the URL to use in iframes, frames, scripts, or JavaScript code that can be embedded directly into web pages or LibGuide. Copy the HTML code or URL at the bottom of the page to embed the widget. The live preview appears at the top of the page (except for the full calendar widget), so you can see how the widget will look in real time. Real-time.
